

Challenge

If the parents of all the pupils in your class came to school for a meeting, how many different nationalities/countries would be represented?

What proportion of all the parents are from each country?

Which is the most common country?

Which is the least common?

Think about ...

Think about describing what proportion of all the parents and grandparents are from each country as a fraction or a percentage.

Think about the best way of displaying your results.

What if?

What if everyone in your class invited their grandparents to the school for Grandparents' Day? How many different nationalities/countries would be represented?

When you've finished, turn to page 80.
